MTO expansion later probable

A "broader and improved educational system" for communities near NASA's Mississippi Test Operations was appealed for Tuesday by Dr. Werner von Braun, director of George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., under which MTO and Michoud operate.

Von Braun asked reporters at a press conference at MTO to get this message across to their readers. This would be "the most important contribution" the cities and counties could make to the space program.

He also emphasized that if Mississippi areas produced people with the necessary education they could be employed at MTO and less people would have to be brought from outside the area. "In the long haul," he said, for the area to obtain "the fullest possible benefit from MTO" "the best possible schools" are required.

"Huntsville had the same problem ten years ago and responded amazingly well. Cotton picking education must give way to space age education," declared the scientist.

Capt. William C. Fortune, MTO manager, had pretty much the same to say. He commented on the cooperation received at the state level in efforts to strengthen the higher education facilities and reported that MTO was counting on Mississippi Southern and the junior colleges for much of its personnel needs but that the secondary and high schools need to be strengthened and "youngsters now need to be interested in science and in the space age". An upgrading of these educational facilities, he added, also would help attract other industry.

He didn't quite say it, but Dr. von Braun strongly indicated Tuesday that when the currently scheduled construction at MTO is completed in 1966 he expected construction of additional facilities to be authorized for this Mississippi testing ground.

Here to inspect developments at MTO he reported he was well satisfied with the progress being made in construction. "I am greatly impressed by the Corps of Engineers work under Col. (D.A.) Raymond, district engineer, Army Corps of Engineers, Mobile district and also think a great deal of credit should go to Capt. (William C.) Fortune, (USN, NASA manager of MTO).

On the question of possible future expansion at MTO von Braun said that while present construction plans included "all that is necessary for the Saturn-Apollo lunar landing" we have the "northeast corner untapped. We call it the post-Saturn area—meaning what we will do later, we will do it in that area".

"We have learned to think big and that includes providing for future growth. We are here to stay and to grow, which will undoubtedly be done in due time".

Asked to comment on the Nova rocket the space engineer said it was "on the back burner" now and that efforts were concentrated on the Saturn V-Apollo phase of the space program. To an earlier question he answered that the Apollo program would put a man on the moon and get him back in this decade, a goal set by

X-ray dept. is hospital topic

In one way or another the X-ray operations at Hancock General Hospital took up most of its trustees' time at their meeting Tuesday night.

Early in the otherwise uneventful session Dr. Maurice R. Wingo, Pass Christian, the hospital's radiologist, proposed a reorganization of the X-ray department which contractually would give him responsibility for and authority over the department (including final determination of its expenses).

Letter Thomas O. Logue, hospital administrator, told the board about recent problems of the department due to the illness of all three of the technicians. While with the hiring of two more technicians, Wilson Farnsworth and Mrs. Barbara Richel, this problem has been alleviated, for a time last week the hospital had to use part-time services of a technician from Slidell and a technician from Bay St. Louis.

Mrs. Monette Wingo, one of the technicians who has been ill, is now back at work on a reduced scale and Robert B. Yarn, Jr., another of the ill technicians, is expected back in a few weeks. The third ill technician, Mrs. Joyce O'Brien, may be out for a longer period.

It's questionable

Politician or not it normally just doesn't make sense for a speaker to go out of his way to tell an audience something displeasing to it, and certainly Senator John Stennis didn't make that mistake Saturday when he addressed Coast Electric Power Association's annual meeting at Hancock North Central School.

He told his audience of several thousand about the civil rights fight in the U. S. Senate and expressed the hope the Southern senators' might be successful. In that connection he did urge Mississippians to leave control of the civil rights troublemakers anticipated for Mississippi this summer to the law enforcement authorities and he pointed out that even such things as the fiery crosses reported in most of Mississippi are used against the senators trying to block or materially temper civil rights legislation.

The senator also said that this country had the most powerful military machine ever known, one that could destroy any enemy in minutes, literally minutes. Since he is a leading member of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, Senator Stennis' statements in this field should be seriously taken.

While the Supreme Court's decision on bible reading and religion in public schools was not directly attacked, the senator made it clear that he advocated more rather than less religion for all.

It would be right hard for us to take issue with the speaker on these matters and on the one issue, where we think he was way off base, most of his audience would be expected to cheer. The senator put himself four-footedly behind the subsidies received by the electric co-operatives. Without quibble he said the co-ops rated the 2 per cent federal loans and the tax advantages they have.

We can hardly believe the senator meant he thought it was correct for Uncle Sam to lend the taxpayers' money to the non-taxed co-ops at 2 per cent and let the co-ops lend the same back to Uncle Sam at 4 per cent. Or that he really meant it was fine for a co-op to borrow the taxpayer's money at 2 per cent to lend to a pickle factory as an inducement for the factory to locate in the area served by the co-op. But that's what he said.

Nor did the senator limit his approval of the co-ops special tax advantages to income taxes, where they have some basis on the ground that because they are co-ops their profits are not really profits. His advocacy included all the property taxes the co-ops don't pay. It even included taxes all the Mississippi co-ops themselves apparently feel they should pay, since they wrote the municipalities of the state that if they served the municipality they would agree to pay sums comparable to what a privately owned utility would have to pay in taxes.

Yes, it doesn't usually make sense for a speaker to go out of his way to tell an audience something displeasing to it, but even in an election year a candidate doesn't have to go as far in the other direction as did Senator Stennis Saturday unless he means it. Is he really a conservative?

Probe break-in YACHT CLUB LUNCHEON at Ford agency

Break-in at Hogland Ford last Friday night is under investigation by the city police, Chief Lathan Garriga said this week. Small cash in the safe and tools were taken.

A Paris, Tex., man employed with a contracting firm at Mississippi Test Operations, Woodrow J. Brady, faces hearing in mayor's court tonight on charges resulting from an accident Friday night. Garriga and Sheriff Sylvan Ledner arrested him Saturday at a U.S. 90 trailer park after Policemen Paul Eglott and Julius Webb investigated the mishap.

They said Brady in a 1960 Thunderbird traveling at a high rate of speed on North Beach knocked down marker posts and a tree in front of the Roger Ebb home, causing about $1,200 damage to the car.

State Highway Patrolman Donald Pope investigated a two-car collision Tuesday morning in front of Sanford's Gulf Station on U.S. 90 when a 1959 Chevrolet operated by Gerald Ferve of Bay St. Louis was damaged about $1,000 and a '60 Dodge driven by Maud A. Wagner of Chalmette, La., sustained damages of about $500. Both were taken to Hancock Central Hospital.

of additional equipment.

At present Wingo receives for his fees 35 per cent of the hospital charges for x-rays but Tuesday night neither Wingo nor Logue was sure whether the percentage was of actual collections only or included 35 per cent of uncollected charges. Also, under the present arrangement the administrator and trustees determine the direct expenses of the x-ray department such as salaries of technicians, how many are employed and what materials and equipment are purchased and from whom.

In support of his proposal Wingo said that, while he did not really want the authority, he would have to have it if he had the responsibility and he believed if he had it he could improve the quality of the x-ray work done.

Although the board took the doctor's proposal under advisement the immediate reactions of the members was strongly against any change in the present arrangement.

The board decided to hold for consideration until the next time general pay raises are considered any question of paying for the employees the cost of the recent increase by Blue Cross in hospitalization insurance. The increase, which is due to the high incidence of hospitalization among the employees in recent years, amounted to $98.90 a month for all

Dedicate hospital heliport Friday

Dedication of the hospital's new heliport at 5 p.m. Friday will highlight Hancock General Hospital's observance of National Hospital Week, according to Administrator Thomas O. Logue. He also reported that tentative plans for the dedication included first use of the facility by a helicopter.

Earlier plans for the heliport included its paying before now, but Logue said these had been changed and that now it was planned to sod, fence and light the area in the near future.

two-to-one is unfair, but will vacation for the summer and should be in good form come time for fall leagues.

Still on the subject of bowling, not babies, Mary Wilcox really shines when husband Delmer arrives with the three younger children scoring her highest games with her built-in rooting section. Bertha Gendin also seems to mark more heavily when Alvin and the boys are pulling for mammal.

Old age must be our only excuse for misplacing so many notes of late but nevertheless we're going to wish Miss Valerie Bellamy a genuinely happy if most belated birthday. She was feted by her mother, Mrs. John Glover, and Mr. Glover at a party on the occasion of her ninth birthday Saturday, April 25, at their Carroll Avenue home. We're also happy to report that John has completely recovered from injuries suffered in an accident the weekend prior to the party.

Jack Seuzeneau reports that wife Doris is walking around Gulfport Memorial Hospital after major surgery there last week. In fact she's doing so well she expects to be released by the first of next week.

Free returns

We want to ask all patrons of the City-County Memorial Library to please check your bookshelves carefully and if you find any belonging to the library hurray right down and return them FREE! The week of May 13-20 is no fines week and all may turn books in without paying over due charges. Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gruntz who celebrated their 22nd wedding anniversary on Sunday, May 10. Mrs. Gruntz also celebrated Mother's Day and it was Mr. Gruntz' birthday, so they had quite a large day.

Has anyone lost a crystal and silver rosary? Bobbie La Coste found such a rosary in front of Brewster's jewelry last Friday and the owner may call her at HO7-4028.

Get well wishes go to Miss Gail Mollere who is confined to her home with measles. Sympathy is extended to Nettie (Mrs. Havard) Burleigh, to her brother Gene Dufillo and to their mother, Mrs. John Dufillo of Opelousas, who is visiting both following the death of her husband last week. Mr. Dufillo passed away at the age of 91; the couple had been wed 64 years.

Sympathy also goes to the family of Andrew Asher who died in Hancock General early Monday after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Earle Gates and Mrs. Joseph Vitari were among Waveland Home Demonstration Club members sailing lovely plants in front of the drug store Friday and Saturday. Proceeds go to tuberculosis patients.

While just about everybody else is fighting the excess poundage battle, Nell (Mrs. Alfred) Zeigler groans because the needle snags at 104 when she steps on the scales!

Deepest sympathy is extended to Joseph Connor upon the passing of his wife, Mrs. Connor died in New Orleans on Friday.

Spending Sunday in the Crescent City were Mary Catherine (Mrs. Leo) Moran, her mother, Mrs. Ruby Bennett, her mother-in-law, Mrs. A. J. Moran, and daughters Kathleen and Terri. They visited Mrs. A. J. Moran's son Edgar and family; her daughter, Mrs. Francis Schubert, Mr. Schubert and small son Joe who was recuperating from pneumonia and Mrs. Bennett's niece, Mrs. John Nester and family.

It's good to see Clifford Carver back at Clifford's once again. He was forced to be away from his business much of last week due to the fact that Mrs. Carver was seriously ill. We're happy to report that she is now much better. Much to Clifford's relief, Think coping with the four tiny Carvers was about to get him down.

Gripe corner

Although the telephone company blessedly appears to be almost through with their street gouging work, they still have the cute little habit of ripping up hanks of roadway feet wide and laches deep and then putting up warning signs only after the hole has been mended. . . why

Rock juniors will present Arsenic, Lace

Arsenic and Old Lace, a play in three acts by Joseph Kesselring, will be presented by the St. Stanislaus College junior class at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Bay St. Louis Little Theater on Boardman Avenue.

The cast includes Albert Thompson, Murray Butler, Anthony Silece, Cricket Bradford, Niel Fick, Mike Pagano, Robert Tessler, Andre Robichaux, Dick Kammer, Wayne Windsor, Robert Schenberg, Chris MacGowan and Dennis Grey.

Brother Adrian, S.C., and Brother Celestine, S.C., will direct while Ricky Stechmann is the technical director. On the stage crew are Frank Tugwell and John Parrott, stage managers; Curtis Matherne, set designer; and Brother Marvin, S.C., and James Landry, set construction.

The play concerns two elderly bachelors who live in Brooklyn, N.Y. They become involved in murder and mayhem this hasn't already caused numerous wrecks we can only attribute to sheer luck and/or good brakes!

SIGHTS AND SOUNDS ALONG THE WAY - Yellow day lilies and multi-hued oleanders adding their beauty to other abundant spring blossoms, a lobster red sunbather still soaking up sunshine on rickety pier, a man eagerly pushing a riding-type lawn mower with the little seat following behind and the blending sounds of hundreds of lawnmowers as everybody seems to decide to cut the grass on the same day!
